What's A Pokemon?

Note: Here's a Pokemon story for you. I hope it something done for the first time. If it's not, oh well. I thought it would be a good idea. Enjoy.

Note #2: Just a reminder, the whole story will be set in Kalos, but Pokemon don't exist. **

â€¦yet.

Me and my mom were on a plane ride. She told me something about moving to the Kalos region. I was all for moving from Johto. (more on that later) The house we would be moving to, would be in the middle of Vaniville Town.

"Are you excited, Connor? To see what this side of the world is like?" my mom asked.

"Yeah, I hope it's not like Johto." I said.

"Sweetie, if anything happened like in Johto, we'll move again."

"Running away makes it worse." I said.

"OR, we smack a lot of sense into them. Painfully."

I smiled. Hopefully things work out for her as well as it's supposed for me. My mom is a racer. Things weren't going good for the racing jobs back in Joketo. There was more over here we could work with.

Hopefully it's like we think.

**HOURS LATER****

We got out of our moving truck to see what we were getting into. I saw loads of children playing outside. There was this attractive blonde-haired girl sitting on a doorstep. When we made eye contact, she smiled and waved. Not wanting to be rude on the first day, I returned both the smile and wave.

Inside of the house was amazing. Flatscreen TV, fireplace, and we each get a bedroom. The kitchen was small though.

"You need any help?" I asked.

"Nah, one of the workers will. Why don't you look around, see what this place has to offer."

I stepped outside, and the girl I saw earlier was gone. The kids were playing a different game, and I'd see one or two glance at me. I opened the doors to the city. The sign said "Route 1". It was a very short path. Off of the path, there was another sign. "Aquacorde Town." I looked around. It was a pretty sight, this town with a forest towards the back, and you'd have to cross a bridge.

There was people looking at me, and I didn't like it. I ran back towards the new house.

And then I bumped into something. Oops, some_one._

"Ow, I'm sorry." I said and I looked in front of me. It was the same girl from before.

"It's ok, I wasn't looking either."

We both got up. She continued.

"I was just going to meet some friends, you want to come with?" she asked.

"Sure."

We walked through the town, and the people were waving and saying hi to this girl.

_How does this girl do it, make friends with everyone she sees?
Hopefully I can learn thatâ€¦| _

We went through this long-winded forest, that had a stupid path that went in all sorts of directions. When we got out, I saw we were on Route 3.

"That is Santalune City. We're meeting up over there." she said.

There were a lot of cafes. There were 3 people running up to her. There was this girl with pigtails and a pink dress, this redhead in a green suit, and this fat guy with a picture of ice cream on his shirt.

"Serena, we've been looking everywhere for you!" the girl said.

"Have you heard the news?" the green-suit kid asked.

"What, Trevor?" the other girl asked.

"There's this new kid!" the fat guy exclaimed.

"Wait, who's this?" the little girl asked.

"The new kid." she said back.

They swarmed me with questions. I got bad flashbacks of Johto. It started like this too. Then it happened.

"What's the matter?" the short girl asked.

"Let's not preen him too much. After all, he's new. So, what's your name?" the other girl asked.

"Uh, Connor." I answered.

"I'm Serena, that's Shauna, Trevor, and Tierno. You still want to have coffee?"

"Yeah."

We were there for a couple hours. Trevor and Tierno soon had to go back home. Shauna had to go shopping for her family, so me and Serena were in the forest walking back.

"I had a good first day." I said.

"That's good."

"What's the school like here?"

"Actually, not that big, it's my group and a couple other of people."

I liked talking to her.

Then, I tripped on a branch, and caused a mudslide, sweeping me with it. She was calling after me, but I couldn't stop.

After a couple of minutes, I flipped one more time and landed. I looked around. There was this huge cocoon like thing in front of me, pulsating light from it. There was text next to the cocoon.

_Do-'t c-ack oâ€™n th- m-nst-r._

Too late. When I fell, I cracked open the cocoon. I watched the dome destroy itself. The thing it was protecting was a tiny flying cat with this long tail.

"Ugh, how long was I in that thing?" he asked without moving his mouth. Telekinesis.

I was freaking out.

"Oh! Thank you, human. I am finally free! Now, where am I?"

"Uh, Kalos." I said.

"Sorry for freaking you out. I am Mew. I am a Pokemon.

"What's a Pokemon?" I asked.

He cringed. "Are you telling me you are in the world where we don't exist?"

"I think so." I said, getting a little more scared.

"You don't need to be scared."

Two portals opened from his hands.

"BE FREE!"

After he said that, multiple different life forms jumped, swam, and flew out. After 10 seconds, all of them were gone.

"What did you do?"

"I freed them. All 720 Pokemon are out among you."

"Put them back!" I screamed.

He paused.

"I'll make you a deal. If you see all of the legendary Pokemon out there, and still don't like these guys, we will all leave. But if you don't see them, or you like them, I assume we can stay. Deal?"

I shook his paw.

"Oh, and I don't count right now. You have to refind me. To make it easy, you don't have to leave Kalos. There's a boundary around the continent. Toodles!"

He teleported.

I was also teleported to the Route 2 entrance. Serena ran up to me, screaming a million words every second.

"Relax! Relax."

"Sorry, what happened?" she asked.

Something hit my foot, a sphere covered by a dark cloth, with eyes and a horn.

"Shuppet..." he cooed.

"Uh, don't freak out."

**I hope that was good so far. I plan to update as good as I can. Everyone will have a partner Pokemon in this story, and no. Because Pokemon just came to life, there is no Team Flare. Or any other teams, except maybe the Hoenn ones, because of their story in OR/AS. I'm rattling. But my O.C will have Shuppet as a partner Pokemon.**

**(Who else is hyped for Pokemon Sun/Moon?）**
